

Will the broadcast flag interfere with consumers ability to make copies of DTV content for their personal use, either on personal video recorders or removable media?

Yes!

Would the digital flag interfere with consumers ability to send DTV content across networks, such as home digital networks connecting digital set top boxes, digital recorders, digital servers and digital display devices?

Yes!

Would the broadcast flag requirement limit consumers ability to use their existing electronic equipment (equipment not built to look for the flag) or make it difficult to use older components with new equipment that is compliant with the broadcast flag standard?

Yes!

Would a broadcast flag requirement limit the development of future equipment providing consumers with new options?

Yes!

What will be the cost impact, if any, that a broadcast flag requirement would have on consumer electronics equipment?

Costs will be high because the market demand will be small.

Other Comments:

This is a power grab by someone to take away my existing rights to use my purchased content. I personally will avoid buying any of the broadcast flag encumbered products. I have already determined to avoid buying new CDs or DVDs until this content use control problem is resolved.